

Please print your ID, surname, given name and group number legibly in the spaces provided so that I can actually read it. You must use an ink pen with black or blue ink, but no other writing utensil. DO NOT USE LIQUID PAPER. You may use the official color cheat sheet, but no other notes or books. NO ELECTRONICS ARE PERMITTED.

<pre> _7_ 1 should be last in the last blank. _4_ 2 the correct order for the lines by _2_ 3 second blank, ..., the line number that _6_ 4 been randomized. You need to tell me _8_ 5 number that should be second in the _5_ 6 putting the line number that should be _3_ 7 The source lines for my source code have _1_ 8 first in the first blank, the line </pre>	<pre> The source lines for my source code have been randomized. You need to tell me the correct order for the lines by putting the line number that should be first in the first blank, the line number that should be second in the second blank, ..., the line number that should be last in the last blank. </pre>
---	---

```

_58_ 1         if c==quitchoic
_21_ 2         ["Subtract", dosubtract],
_53_ 3         except ValueError:
_28_ 4         """
_52_ 5         menu=menudata[2:]
_46_ 6         print("         {}".format(menudata[0]))
_4_ 7         menustuff=[
_8_ 8         The domenu() function will display a text menu base on the data sent
_41_ 9
_55_ 10                print("{} . {}".format(i+1,j[0]))
_18_ 11                continue
_40_ 12
_45_ 13                print("{} . Quit".format(quitchoic))
_51_ 14                def dosubtract():
_19_ 15                domenu(menustuff)
_20_ 16                if c<1 or c>quitchoic:
_23_ 17                """
_17_ 18                and the rest of the list is composed of lists with two items each.
_33_ 19                ["choice 2", c2func], ...]
_6_ 20                The functions mentioned must exist at the time the menudata parameter
_31_ 21                # -- coding: utf-8 --
_5_ 22
_54_ 23                is created. This procedure does not return a value.
_34_ 24                print("Bad choice {}".format(c))
_10_ 25                def doadd():
_13_ 26                menu[c-1]1
_38_ 27                if __name__ == '__main__':
_47_ 28                # by John Ham
_43_ 29                break
_39_ 30                ]
_3_ 31                print("")
_57_ 32                ["Add", doadd],
_11_ 33                while True:
_16_ 34                for i,j in enumerate(menu):
_24_ 35
_48_ 36                print("do show")
_1_ 37                "Your choice:",
_29_ 38                print("")
_26_ 39                c=int(s)
_9_ 40                Those pairs are the menu text string and the function to call if the _27_ 41                in the menudata parameter, which must be a list where the first
_25_ 42                print("do add")
_42_ 43                try:
_22_ 44
_14_ 45                users slelects that menu choice. For example:
_50_ 46                def domenu(menudata):
_35_ 47                s=input(menudata[1])
_49_ 48                continue
_36_ 49                def doshow():
_44_ 50                print("do subtract")
_7_ 51                ["title","prompt", ["choice 1",c1func],
_59_ 52                # for 886494 class
_37_ 53                # mymenu module
_32_ 54                quitchoic=len(menu)+1
_2_ 55                element is the menu title, the second element is the prompt string,
_56_ 56                ["Show", doshow]
_30_ 57                print("Invalid choice '{}'".format(s))
_15_ 58                #! /usr/bin/env python3.5
_12_ 59                "Main Menu",

```